DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference character "22" has been used to designate both the "safety hook" and the "metal grounding" in figures 3A and 3C. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
- 4. Claim 1 recites the limitations "the end of a cable" and "the shell" in lines 2 and 5 respectively. There is insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1 and 3-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Admitted Prior Art (AAPA) in view of Thompson et al. (US Patent 5,489,275).

With regards to claim 1, Applicant, at pages 1 and 2 of the specification to be known as AAPA, discloses a cable mounted to a connector with ends of the cable marked for identification purpose. AAPA does not disclose a strain relief clamp with a transparent portion through which a marking of interest is visible when the strain relief clamp is installed on the connector. However Thompson et al. teaches a movable component slidably mounted on a connector cable, the component including a transparent portion through which a marking of interest is visible, see column 1, lines 42-48. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have provided the strain relief clamp of AAPA with a transparent portion, in light of the teachings of Thompson et al., in order to more accurately identify cables. Applicant should note that the provision of strain relief clamp on the connector is conventional in the art.

For claims 3-6, see column 1, lines 48-53, column 2, lines 23-28 and figures 1, 5, 8, 11, 14 and 15. Applicant should note that it is within the general knowledge of one of ordinary skill in the art to provide appropriate shape transparent portions on the clamp.

For claim 7, Applicant, at pages 1 and 2 of the specification to be known as AAPA, discloses a method for identifying a cable that has identification markings on its end section wherein cable ends are marked for identification and mounted to connectors. AAPA does not disclose a strain relief clamp with a transparent portion through which a marking of interest is visible when the strain relief clamp is installed on the connector. However Thompson et al. teaches a movable component slidably mounted on a connector cable, the component including a transparent portion through which a marking of interest is visible, see column 1, lines 42-48. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have provided the strain relief clamp of AAPA with a transparent portion, in light of the teachings of Thompson et al., in order to more accurately identify cables. Applicant should note that the installation of the strain relief clamp on the connector is conventional ion the art and that it is within the general knowledge of one of ordinary skill in the art to appropriately mount a strain relief clamp with a transparent window on a cable and connector such that markings of interest are visible through the window.

7. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over AAPA/Thompson et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Beier et al. (US Patent 6,367,897).

AAPA/Thompson et al. discloses a strain relief clamp as shown above except for the strain relief clamp including an antikink protective sleeve. However it is known to provide antikink sleeves to connectors as attested by Beier et al., see column 4, lines 22-25 and figure 1. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have provided the strain relief clamp of AAPA/Thompson et al. with an antikink protective sleeve, in light of the teachings of Beier et al., in order to prevent buckling of the cable.
